This Week's Facts of Our Faith

Q. Why are Catholics called "Roman"?

A. Catholics are called Roman to show that they are in union with the true Church founded by Christ and governed by the Apostles under the direction of St. Peter, by divine appointment the Chief of Apostles, who founded the Church of Rome and was its first bishop.

Q. By what name is a Bishop's diocese sometimes called?

A. A Bishop's diocese is sometimes called his see. The Diocese of Rome, on account of its authority and dignity, is called the Holy See, and its Bishop is called the Holy Father or Pope. Pope means father.
